EDUCATION:

Jayanti Organization education interventions are focused on helping children from difficult circumstances to have access to equal by opportunities for school completion and equitable learning outcomes. Right to Education, Learning, and Development (emotional, physical and mental) are fundamental human rights of all children below the age of 18 years as per the United Nations Conventions on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC). But millions of children are deprived of these basic rights for several reasons including conflict, natural calamities, ethnicity, disability, and above all poverty.

Jayanti Organization was established with the prime intention of facilitating children to overcome these barriers and the prevailing inequity in society. The Right to Education (RTE) Act which came into force in 2010 made education free and compulsory for all children in the age group of 6-14 years. However, more than a decade later, the learning curve has not been steady for all children. The socio-economic conditions of parents and gaps in the learning infrastructure and environment in schools are hindrances which prevent many children from getting a proper education. The National Education Policy of 2020 has introduced some welcome and progressive changes that are positioned to make India's education system more inclusive and holistic. Jayanti organization education interventions are focused on helping children from difficult circumstances to have access to equal opportunities for school completion and equitable learning outcomes. Our programs are aligned to the National Education Policy and aim to support the efforts of government to enhance accessibility of quality education for all children.

Focus Areas:

- FLN & Grade-specific Learning Outcomes.
- Enabling Learning Environment.
- Wellbeing of Students.
- Need-based Teachers' Training.
- Parent & Community Engagement.

Over the past decades, gender equality has been recognized as crucial not only to the health of nations but also to their social and economic development. The promotion of gender equality and women empowerment is a key aspect of UNDP's Sustainable Development Goals. A community, society, and country prosper when its women are empowered. Skilled women join India's workforce and contribute to economy; healthy women lay down the foundation for healthy families; aware mothers ensure that their children go to school; empowered women become change makers and support other women. Jayanti organization women empowerment program Swabhiman, initiated in 2005, reaches out to marginalized and socially-excluded women with interventions in nutrition, healthcare and livelihood. The program capacitates women through innovative community practices, empowering them to seek healthcare and bring sustainable changes in the community, while also supporting them to become aware, skilled and financially independent. Swabhiman by far has been able to affirm through community actions and advocacy that though women face numerous socio-cultural challenges coming from their prescribed societal roles and ascribed status within the family, community, and society, contravening such challenges is very much possible through creation of opportunities and enabling environment. The mainstay of Swabhiman program's community outreach is through Change Agents, Peers Educators, Community Health Educators and Swabhiman Health Volunteers. These change agents are identified from the community and empowered through regular training sessions on relevant issues. They further educate and spread awareness among their peers in the community. Such interventions and innovations lead to a comprehensive approach that addresses social, economic, and health challenges, promoting sustainable development, and leaving a positive and lasting impact on individuals, communities, and society as a whole.

CLOTHES Distribution to Needy

Clothing is a fundamental need of the human kind. Apart from covering one's body, clothing protects us from the sun, rain and cold. Further, it gives dignity to our 'self'. Jayanti organization through its interaction with the community realized that clothing did much more than just covering the human body. For example, a few students in Odisha, Balasore who joined college were on the verge of becoming dropouts because they didn't have respectable clothes to wear. When this came to notice, Jayanti organization intervened by simply giving each of them 3 pairs of clothes suitable for college from its clothes bank "Vastra" and this simple initiative led to the continuation of their studies. Further it was noticed that in Odisha lack of decent clothing, deter women from stepping out of their house for months together. This in turn has other adverse implications on their empowerment and psychology that can be prevented easily with a few clothes. we are also provided the blankets and other clothes also distribute the school, college, and poor and needy people also.

Clothing distribution is an important initiative that provides essential clothing to needy individuals and families. Jayanti Organization This humanitarian effort aims to promote dignity, self-respect and warmth among vulnerable populations. By collecting and distributing gently used clothing, shoes and accessories, clothing distribution programs make a tangible difference in the lives of many people. The benefits . clothing distribution are multifaceted. First, it addresses the basic need for clothing, which is often taken for granted. Many individuals and families struggle to afford basic clothing items, leaving them vulnerable to harsh weather conditions and social exclusion. Clothing distribution programs help bridge this gap, ensuring everyone has access to warm, clean clothes. Our organization has taken the initiative to provide clothes to every poor or needy person. clothes distribution fosters community engagement and social cohesion. Volunteers and donors come together to support a common cause, building connections and strengthening community bonds. Recipients, too, experience a sense of belonging and gratitude, knowing that others care about their well-being. Effective clothes distribution programs prioritize dignity and choice. Recipients should have the opportunity to select items that suit their needs and preferences, rather than receiving handouts. This approach acknowledges the autonomy and individuality of each person.

Environment Protection & cleanliness:

Jayanti organization realized that given the high dependency of man on ecosystem services, and given the growing unpredictability of Mother Nature, making the underprivileged conscious about nature is important.
